Current Position at CWA

Ben Cockshull joined the Food & Agricultural Commodities Department as a Food Scientist in 2019.

Ben has a broad background in biological sciences including microbial ecology, cell biology and plant biotechnology and has begun in-house training at CWA. This training has included mentoring from senior figures at CWA with a wealth of experience in the industry. He is now starting to develop an in-depth knowledge of the shipping industry, the common agricultural commodities carried and the potential problems that arise.
